INTERWORK ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

NEWS

Duttons' double

STAFF at Dutton Motors Murray Bridge has reason to celebrate after winning two awards for excellence.

The business has taken out the Interwork 2010 Employer of the Year title while employee Shaun McGlashan won the Achiever of the Year category.

Interwork communications manager Miranda Lang congratulated both Duttons and Mr Glashan for winning the awards.

"There were a total of five categories with a variety of submissions from 22 Interwork offices across South Australia," she said.

"We were very pleased to acknowledge the recipient of two categories came from Murray Bridge and that the Achiever of the Year winner is actually employed by the Employer of the Year winner - Duttons."

During the award presentation Interwork regional manager Mike Taylor praised the efforts of Mr McGlashan, presenting him with a certificate, trophy and a $300 voucher for the Murray Bridge Golf Club Pro Shop.

"What has struck me most is Shaun's passion and drive to work," he said.

Mr McGlashan, whose duties include cleaning customer's cars, said he was excited to have received the award.

"I like keeping the cars clean, it is very much a rewarding job," he said.

Duttons service manager Mick Allen said the company was grateful to be acknowledged.

"It's great for Duttons and Shaun to have won the two awards," he said.

"Shaun's very reliable and a worthy recipient."

Interwork is a specialist employment and training service for people with disabilities and others who experience disadvantages in accessing the open employment market.
